Nazis Hint Major Raids Near

INVASION MOVE 'MAY BE TIMED FOR EARLY DATE

British Experts Indicate
"All Out" Attempt To End Resistance

NEW TACTICS IN USE

Daylight Assaults Being Carried Out By "Lone Wolf" Planes

LONDON, Feb. 1—German bombers probably will intensify their renewed daylight assaults on Britain until the Nazi high command considers the moment ripe for a gigantic mass air attack and a simultaneous invasion attempt, British military experts predicted today.

This expert expression of opinion followed yesterday's widespread daylight "lone wolf" raids which caused considerable casualties and damage and proved the heaviest daylight pounding Britain has taken in months.

The new German tactics, which the British described as "armed reconnaissance," are definitely regarded as a prelude to an all-out 1941 air offensive by the Nazi Luftwaffe.

Qualified British sources said the new German campaign is "picking up where the Luftwaffe left off last October" after a protracted period of daylight assaults. During that period, according to British claims, the number of German planes shot down by British fighters reached heavy proportions.

These quarters also expressed belief that the present attacks will continue until the long-heralded Nazi invasion attempt is launched.

"After the terrific defeat of massed German fighters and bombers last September, the Luftwaffe chiefs changed their tactics," one British expert said.

"Fighter-bombers and fighters, loaded with one or two bombs, raided Britain in a steady stream, flying high and fast. They were difficult to intercept."

"Better armored medium and heavy bombers, operating singly, concentrated on shipping targets. The recent offensives indicate this will now be continued until Hitler names the day."

Speculation over the strength of the German air force now available along the continental coastal areas opposite Britain arose anew today after the London Daily Express claimed Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering has sent about one-fifth of the Luftwaffe to southern Italy to "hold the air sector south of the line between Naples and Bari."

The Express also stated that one of Germany's five air corps has been dispatched to Italy.

BERLIN, Feb. 1—German planes successfully bombed several "war-important" British objectives.

R. J. Gillen, 51, Of Wellston,
Suffers Lacerations
South Of City

Judge Roy J. Gillen, 51, Wellston, one of the three jurists on the Fourth District Appellate bench, received minor lacerations in an auto accident on Route 23, 15 miles south of Circleville on Route 23 Friday night.

Others injured were Leo Montgomery, 50; Noah Kirby, 60, and Henry Reese, 41, all of Wellston. The three men, together with Judge Gillen, were returned from Columbus when their car sideswiped a northbound produce truck driven by Walter Ray Weathers, 145 East Mound Street, Columbus, according to Highway Patrolman J. G. Eddie and B. F. McCain.

Weathers told the patrolmen that the Wellston car was following another southbound auto, but swung out as if to pass and sideswiped the left rear end of his truck. The Wellston car, driven by Mr. Reese, received left side damages resulting from the collision.

Mr. Reese received lacerations about the face and hands and a left ankle fracture.

Duce's Soldiers Showing More Strength in Africa

CAIRO, Feb. 1—Amid official acknowledgment of stiffening Italian resistance west of the fallen Fascist base of Derna, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani today was reported massing 50,000 troops at Bengazi in preparation for a determined attempt to check the westward British drive across Libya.

Although few dispatches from the sand-swept desert front trickled into Cairo, the British command reported that operations were continuing to develop to "our advantage." Royal Air Force bombers were reported carrying out heavy raids on Italian bases in western Cyrenaica.

While Anglo-Australian mechanized forces continued their Libyan push, British imperial troops, including Nigerian warriors, were reported to have driven 40 miles inside Italy's southernmost east African colony of Somaliland.

In the embattled Kenya district of Moyale, near the south Abyssinian border, British troops were closing in on an Italian force while in Eritrea British forces continued their drive from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan toward the Red Sea.

ROME, Feb. 1—British mechanized troops, seeking to drive westward into Libya, were forced to retreat in the face of a fierce counter-drive by Italian armored units, the Italian high command announced today.

Aided by dive-bombers which strafed the British columns, the Fascist troops forced the British to abandon their desert positions, and fall back on secondary defense lines, the war bulletin said. (Editor's Note: In Cairo, the British command admitted that Italian resistance west of the fallen Fascist base of Derna had stiffened.)

Both British and Italian troops sustained heavy losses in heavy fighting on the northern frontier of Italian East Africa, the communique reported. Italian warplanes were reported to have participated in the border fighting.

BANDIT KILLED BY POLICEMAN

Ex-Convict Shot Down After
Looting Three Columbus
Establishments

COLUMBUS, Feb. 1—A two-gunned bandit, who held up three north side Columbus establishments, wounding two persons in the process, was dead today, the victim of a bullet from a rookie policeman's gun.

The bandit, identified as Charles K. Kissell, 30-year-old ex-convict, was shot by Patrolman M. M. Beecher in a cafe after Beecher ducked a bullet from Kissell's guns.

Kissell's death ended a holdup spree that began 20 minutes before when he robbed in quick succession two other establishments, exchanging shots at one place with the owner.

A few minutes later, police said, Kissell entered the cafe, where his bullets felled Owner Archie Fiorini, 60, and slightly wounded Tony De Loreto, 31, the elder man suffered bullet wounds in both legs.

Meanwhile, a grill employee, who had run out of a rear door, found Patrolman Beecher. He opened fire as he stepped into the room, simultaneously ducking bullets from the bandit's guns. Kissell died almost immediately, police said.

FEDERAL LABOR MEN TO ACT AT COPPER FACTORY

ELIZABETH, N. J., Feb. 1—Federal labor conciliators were to reassemble today with company and CIO union representatives in an effort to settle the strike of about 1,600 employees at the Phelps-Dodge Copper Products Corporation plant which is supplying $230,000,000 in materials for National Defense contracts.

The conciliators—W. T. Cann and Daniel Hurley—and the representatives of both sides conferred last evening for nearly four hours and reported "some progress" had been made.

The plant, one of the largest in the country, manufactures copper tubing, bars and cable for use in military planes and naval vessels. The corporation has $30,000,000 worth of direct contracts for defense materials and is the supplier of fabricated parts to other defense manufacturers.

CIO union officials attributed the strike to the deadlocking of negotiations over an NLRB election and the recognition of a "ghost union."

Wylie Brown, president of the corporation, said it had a contract with the Bayway Company products employees' association, a non-affiliated outfit, and was being "punished" for observing the agreement. He called the strike a "lawless act."

TWO GIRLS ACCOSTED

Two girls were "grabbed" on North Court Street, Friday night, police reported Saturday, as they continued their watch for a man who has attempted to grab half a dozen women within the last week. The attacker Friday night, believed to be a youth, ran when the girls screamed. Police Chief William McCrady said.

MARCH 6 FIXED FOR ENACTMENT OF 'LEND' BILL

Senate Rule Of Unlimited
Debate May Disrupt
Schedule

TIME LIMIT POSSIBLE

Rep. Martin Forming Bloc
To Force Drastic
Revisions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—Administration leaders of congress, seeking to chart a time-table on the lease-lend bill, today predicted final enactment about March 6 despite contention of foes that there is a steadily rising sentiment against the measure.

In the face of uncertainty caused by the senate rule of unlimited debate, congressional leaders planned passage of the bill in the house of February 7, predicted a week's consideration in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and three weeks on the senate floor.

The senate committee was called into session today to complete examination of Secretary of the Navy Knox, as Sen. George (D) Ga., chairman, threatened to impose a time limit on questioning of witnesses to speed hearings.

The determination of Republican House Leader Joseph Martin, Mass., to force drastic amendments of the measure, however, confronted the administration with a serious threat in the house. The house begins debate on the bill Monday.

Martin, who frequently has organized coalitions and overthrown New Deal legislation, barred politics in his fight, but declared that the measure must be radically modified. He favors aid to England. "Unless the bill is modified beyond the 'window dressing' amendments of the committee, many members will vote against it," he said.

The Republican fight for amendments, it was indicated, will be for: A one-year time limit, barring use of American ports to repair foreign warships, prohibition on convoys, and prohibiting disposal of naval vessels without consent of congress.

Admittedly some house Republicans favor the bill, and some said they would vote for the measure even if their fight for amendments failed.

Bitter-end foes assailed Wendell L. Willkie, Republican candidate for president, in a secret conference of the house Republicans yesterday.

"The Republican party is the party of opposition," declared Rep. Keefe (R) Wis. "And if members are to be dissuaded by persons in high places from opposing this bill, the Republican party will suffer."

Eight Republican members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee assailed the "all out" British aid measure in a minority report and proposed drastic modifications. They urged a substitute bill.

"We are for full aid to Britain short of war, and short of sacrificing our own defense and our own freedom," said the report. "The British, in their valiant struggle which has aroused our (Continued on Page Eight)"

Mr. McCune, married and father of two little girls, is suffering from a skull fracture. The accident was reported to have happened when his car went out of control and struck a tree.

Mr. McCune left the Circleville Purina plant November 15 to accept employment with the Teale Farm Service Co. in Alexandria.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—William Gibbs McAdoo, of California, World War secretary of the treasury and former member of the U. S. senate, died in Washington today. He was 78 years old.

TRUCKERS GO ON STRIKE; DAYTON WORK MENACED

DAYTON, Feb. 1—Fifteen hundred Dayton A. F. of L. truck drivers and helpers struck today demanding a 10-cent an hour pay boost and a 57-hour week instead of the present 60 hours.

It was feared the strike might tie up work on the $1,550,000 expansion program at Wright Field, U. S. army airfield, by halting deliveries of materials. A strike at the field because of a dispute over the employment of four CIO men was settled only yesterday, pending "further investigation" of the situation.

The truckers, members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers, are demanding the pay raise on scales of 50 cents an hour for dock workers, 55 cents an hour for checkers and 60 cents an hour for city drivers.

Employers have agreed, it was said, to make a five-cent increase per hour to the men at a 60-hour work week schedule.

Federal Labor Mediator Michael Crosetto had David T. Finn, business agent for the union, and representatives of trucking firms in conference all night. No progress toward a settlement was reported.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—Wendell Willkie, recent Republican presidential nominee, wired the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today that he would rush home to appeal for passage of the Lease-Lend Bill, leaving Lisbon by clipper plane February 5. He said he hoped to arrive home in time to testify Monday, February 10.

LONDON, Feb. 1—Wendell L. Willkie will cut short his stay in Britain and probably depart from London for the United States Tuesday night to testify on the lend-lease bill before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington, it was announced officially today.

The announcement said the former Republican presidential candidate is cutting short his visit to Britain at the request of Sen. Walter F. George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The senator's request was transmitted to Willkie by cable by Secretary of State Cordell Hull. It asked Willkie to return to America as promptly as possible.

(Editor's Note: In Washington yesterday it was stated that Willkie and Dr. James B. Conant of Harvard University, testifying before the senate committee, will close the administration's case in favor of the aid-Britain measure. In London, Willkie already has stated he will be delighted to testify before the committee.)

View To Be Vital

It was believed Willkie's view of conditions in Britain may be of great importance to the congressional decision on the lend-lease measure. Willkie declined further comment on this.

Before dawn this morning Willkie visited the American Eagle Club in London, gathering place for American airmen in the RAF.

Willkie chatted with many Americans serving with the Canadian Air Force.

Asked to pose for a picture seated at a piano, he said: "Sure, but I don't play. Anyway, let's have a sheet of music."

Wilmington Five On Top 20 to 14

Red and Black Plays Poor Ball Friday Evening, Scoring Only Seven Points In Three Periods; Reserves Come From Behind To Win

Circleville High Tigers waited too long to start playing basketball Friday night at Wilmington, and lost another South Central Ohio league game, this time to Wilmington's Hurricane, 20-14. The Wilmington team didn't win because it was the better aggregation, but because the Circleville team played its most lethargic game of the year. At no time during the evening did the Red and Black find the range of the ball, and only in spurts was any fight shown for possession of the ball.

The Red and Black scored only seven points in the first three quarters of the game, getting one in the first period, two in the second quarter and four in the third. Seven more were added in the last session, the only one in which the local team played any kind of basketball.

Wilmington scored on twice in the first period, but ran up nine more in the next canto to lead 11-3 at the intermission. Five more were added in the third to put the Hurricane ahead 16-7 at the last quarter started.

Staley, Tiger guard, played only part of the game because of illness. Sewell was Wilmington's high point man with seven, while Chuck Valentine scored six for Circleville. Geib was the only member of the Tiger starting team to score a field goal.

Reserves On Top
The Tiger reserves pulled one out of the fire to remain at the top of the SCO with a clean slate, the score being 25-17 in the preliminary. Wilmington was ahead by three points midway in the last quarter, but the Tiger crew battled to the finish, going away as the game ended. The game was a rough one, personal fouls on the Tigers in the last half cutting down their efficiency.

Jim Callihan tossed in 10 points to lead the reserve squad to victory.

Six Games Remain
Circleville has six games remaining on its schedule with the season's record standing at five victories and eight defeats. Oak Hill comes here next Tuesday evening, and in the preliminary the fast Kingston varsity will play the Circleville reserves. Washington C. H. is the invader Friday evening in a South Central League game. The Tigers have not met the Blue Lions on the hardwood this year, so do not know just what to expect.

February 11, the Red and Black goes to Jackson, and February 21 finds Greenfield invading Circleville. The McClain team has won 10 games in a row. Washington C. H. is met on the out-of-town court February 25, and Upper Arlington closes the pre-tournament season February 28 on the C. A. C. court.

BULLA CARDS 66 GOLDEN GATE'S TO TAKE LEAD IN NEW TURF CLUB WESTERN EVENT READY TO OPEN

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 1—Johnny Bulla, winner of the recent Los Angeles Open, today held the lead with a smashing 66 on the first 18-hole round of the $5,000 Western Open golf tournament. He was hard pressed as the second round began by chunky Ed Oliver, who carded a 67.

Bulla, who hails from Chicago, collected five birdies, as did Oliver, both of them playing beautiful golf from start to finish. Both did some powerful driving, and both were in a position many times to clip par after their tee shots.

Bulla's nines were 32 and 34, and Oliver's were 35 and 32. Byron Nelson, of Toledo, Emerick Kocsis, of Lake Orion, Mich., and Bennie Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., followed Oliver with 68s.

In the 69 bracket were Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, Red Francis, Altoona, Pa., John Geersten, Salt Lake City, and Denny Champagne, Grand Rapids, Mich. Scoring 70s were Clayton Hearner, Linville, N. C., George Fazio, Philadelphia, Herman Barron, Dallas, W. A. Slackhouse, Mineral Wells, Tex., and Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa.

Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, Tex., the defending champion, carded a 71, while "Slammin" Sammy Snead, pre-tournament favorite, came in with a 72.

LEADERS RETAIN THEIR POSITIONS IN COUNTY LOOP

Deercreek, Ashville, Monroe Fives Victorious In Friday Games

Three of the county's top rating teams retained their positions Friday night and tightened the race for the county championship.

A Deercreek team, which showed offensive power on its opponent's floor, defeated New Holland 51 to 30, with the Bulldogs showing strength at times, but apparently not fully recovered from the whipping they took from Scioto Township last Tuesday evening. The Deercreek five held the upper hand during most of the game, with the score at the half standing 28 to 11 in their favor.

Deercreek's reserves defeated New Holland in the second team battle 20 to 11.

Ashville retained its one defeat rating Friday night by whipping Perry 35 to 23 at Atlanta, with Neff, Foreman and Wilson doing most of the scoring for the Ashville five. Perry dropped its second team game to Ashville 17 to 12.

Washington Township took two games at Jackson, the varsity winning 24 to 12 and the reserves 23 to 11, with Matz for Washington and Mowery for Jackson chalking up the most points.

Monroe kept its rating by defeating Walnut 37 to 22, but dropped the second team game to the visiting reserves 10 to 16. The Junior High teams battled to a 12 to 12 tie in an overtime game which showed plenty of action.

Scioto Township dropped a non-league game to Bloomingburg by a field goal losing 27 to 29. The Commercial Point second string lads were forced to give up their contest 21 to 25 in an overtime game. Timmons and Dennis for Scioto and Andrews and Brown for Bloomingburg were high men in the varsity match. Martin for Scioto and Ryan for Bloomingburg did most of the second team scoring.

No report was received on the Darby-Saltcreek game played on the former court.

New Coach

FORMER All-American end at Notre Dame, Earl Brown has been named head basketball coach and end coach of the football team at Harvard University. Brown, now end coach and frosh cage mentor at Brown U., succeeds Wesley Fesler, who resigned to become head football coach at Wesleyan University.

BILL TERRY PUTS REDLEGS UP AS OUTFIT TO BEAT

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—The Reds seem the best bet to win the National League pennant; the Dodgers or Cardinals should be runners-up; the Pirates will be improved; the Cubs are impossible to figure; the Bees may not do as well as last year; and how the Giants will fare will depend almost entirely on Shortstop Billy Jurges' condition.

At least that is the way Bill Terry, manager of the Giants, sized up the coming race today.

"If our pitchers click; if Jurges can go at short with Oregano at third and Whitehead at second and Young at first; and if we escape injuries, the Giants could possibly finish one-two-three," said Terry.

"I like the Cardinals. They always have a lot of good ball players and in the next day or two I'm going to try to trade or buy a ball player from them."

"I'd hate to lose Arnovich in the draft, but there are two or three other players Uncle Sam is welcome to take from me. I expect to get a lot of catching out of Gabby Hartnett. I think he can work wonders with a pitcher like Melton. Lohrman is going to be a spot pitcher. He goes well against the Reds and Cubs. And I'm going to use Hubbell only once a week."

"My big four should be Bowman, Schumacher, Gumbert and Melton. I think Johnny Rucker will develop into an outstanding outfielder. He really seems to have what it takes. He'll play center between Arnovich and Ott, with Demaree and Moore in reserve."

Grandpappy Jenkins says the difficulties Japan has encountered in China is easily understandable if you've ever tried to get your laundry back after having lost the ticket.

Smash To Body Blasts Burman

Joe Louis Fires Sunday Punch In Fifth Round Of Thirteenth Defense Of World's Title

By Lawton Carver
NEW YORK, Feb. 1—Red Burman lay draped across the bottom rope, swaying there like someone who had dashed across no-man's land only to die on a strand of barbed wire.

This was the picture Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis had today of his latest victim in the 13th defense of his title, a defense which saw Louis add to his accomplishments with a body punch knockout. The finish in the fifth round was a bloody, macabre thing. Still, it was no more nor any less than was expected.

We can say this for Burman: He was game and durable after a fashion last night before 18,061 customers packed into Madison Square Garden, but after all, that too is no more nor less than should be expected. A heavyweight fighting for a cut from a $62,899 gate should be able to go for a while.

Old Baltimore Red did just this—for four rounds. In fact he won two of the first four rounds and took unto himself the additional honor of being the first man ever to cut Louis. He opened a thin little hairline gash over Louis' left eye with his mauling and swarming, but in turn, was slashed so thoroughly that he was a pitiful caricature while he lay there swaying limply on the bottom rope at the finish.

Joe Takes First Two
Louis had won the first two rounds although he had backed up most of the time, when Burman won the next two, but actually arrived at the finish in the fourth when Louis reared back and pulled the trigger on his Sunday punch, a straight right hand, nevertheless, dressed Burman up for the pay off in the next round.

Here's the way the finish came about as a matter of information, although it probably isn't overly important considering that it was a foregone conclusion: Louis landed two or three lefts and rights to the chin, then feinted another punch to Burman's jaw and ripped his right with a loud smack deep into Burman's body and stretched him across the ropes as previously mentioned Burman lay there inert with the blood running out of his eye and nose in a steady stream while Referee Frank Fullam counted him out.

Louis wasn't too good last night, especially when Burman swarmed into him and a puncher fighting Burman's fight might have wreaked some havoc and even perpetrated an upset. It just so happened that the 185-pound challenger didn't have enough to do more than win the two rounds and to impart some momentum with a feeble swing to a slip that carried Louis through the ropes to the apron of the ring in the third. All in all, it was a good fourth round fight, Louis weighing 202½.

Next, Gus Dorazio, at Philadelphia, February 17, and one a month thereafter as usual.

Julius Caesar's body was burned in the Roman Forum, the remains collected and deposited in the tomb of the Caesars in the Campus Martius.

LOUIS MAY JOIN ARMY AS ATHLETIC TEACHER
NEW YORK, Feb. 1—Joe Louis today still is heavyweight champion of the world, but to his Selective Service board in Chicago he is No. 378.

Joe is not expected to be drafted in the near future, but there is a possibility he may enlist as an athletic instructor. Lew Jenkins, world's lightweight champion, also enlisted recently.

Louis is married and expects an addition to the family soon.

The Individual's Responsibility Toward Alcohol

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Habakkuk 2:15; Genesis 4:9-12; Mark 9:42-48; I Thess. 5:22

Because Cain slew Abel, his brother, the Lord pronounced sentence on him that he should become "a fugitive and a vagabond" upon the face of the earth.

"Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him and maketh him drunken also," said the Lord through the prophet Habakkuk.

"Whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in Me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he were cast into the sea," said Jesus.

"If thy hand offend thee, cut it off for it is better to enter into life maimed than to be cast into hell fire." (GOLDEN TEXT—I Thess. 5:22)

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, February 1

A MODERATELY successful and happy day is read from the predominant astral influences. In some respects there may be promise of expansion, advancement and a degree of stability and satisfaction as to increased possessions, investments and property values. Certain activities in connection with public affairs should thrive or bring recognition or favors from those in authority but protect the funds and refrain from extravagance, be alert to duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a moderately successful, progressive and secure year, with expansion of interests, a solidification of old and static conditions, with enhancement of values and personal prestige. Elders or those in public places may be disposed to reward merit application and steadfastness. But be prudent with finances and also keep alive to possibilities of fraud, deception or other undercover menace.

A child born on this day may be steady, efficient and fairly ambitious and have a mind equipped to cope with serious problems and complicated situations, thereby meriting the approbation of its superiors.

For Sunday, February 2

holds augury of exceedingly lively and interesting events, with the energies under high stimuli for some very constructive effort, perhaps in planning definite change in associates or environs in order to promote and foster very high ambitions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a progressive and productive year, with new projects and ambitious objectives moving with accelerated pace. The venture may involve radical change in plans, environs and associates, with those in authority ready to endorse and substantially cooperate.

A child born on this day will have much creative ability and initiative to back it up. Its logical mentality may lead it around pitfalls of over-extravagance, perhaps a gambling instinct.

anthem will be "Sing Aloud Unto God," and the solo, "The Lost Chord," by Harriett Beery.

The First Presbyterian Choir will sing the anthem "More Love to Thee, O Christ" by Oley Speaks during the worship hour at the church Sunday morning. Miss Abbe Mills Clarke will play at the organ "Nocturne in E" by Tschalkowsky, "A Desert Song" by Sheppard and "Postlude" by Rogers. "The Challenge to Adventure" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor.

The Rev. George Troutman will use as his subject Sunday morning at Trinity Lutheran Church "If any Man be in Christ, He is a New Creature." Subject of the evening service will be "Building for Eternity."

Lutherans have planned a full schedule for next week with meetings scheduled for each night. The Von Bora society will meet Monday night at 7:30, the Church vestry Tuesday evening at 7, with the Luther League play scheduled for 8 o'clock. The play will be held again on Wednesday evening. The Junior Choir will meet Thursday evening at 7, the teachers Friday at 6:45 and the senior choir at 7:15. Saturday Cathetical Instructions will be held at 2 p. m.

'40 PLUS CLUB' OF KANSAS CITY SEEKS MEMBERS

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—New members are being sought for the 40 Plus Club of Kansas City.

Eligible candidates must be unemployed executives, more than 40 years old, who once made at least $4,000 a year.

The 100 active members who joined the club two years ago obtained positions.

"The trouble was the club did not keep getting new members," said W. Dean Stringer, employment secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who started the Kansas City organization. "We had eight men at our reorganization meeting, and expect to get 15 or 20 into the new club."

Members of the 40 Plus Club are not permitted to hunt positions for themselves, but must search jobs for other members. This is on the theory that a man is less timid in asking employment for others. Also, it helps to get his mind off himself and his difficulties.

WIDOWS TO AID WIDOWS

PORTLAND, Ore.—The widows of Silverton, Ore., plan to make it their job to help other widows through a unique organization. The group, organized as the Silverton Widow's Club, meets once a year and sets up a program for the coming year. This year the group will stress calling on widows who are sick or lonely.

Now that it's been determined that some of our most brilliant thinkers have receding foreheads we may expect any day to read of a great scientist "who is one of our leading low-brows."

TWO GREAT GREEKS

It is a remarkable thing that so small a country as Greece should have produced in one generation, two of the greatest men in Europe. The first was Eleutherios Venizelos, who rose to power in 1920 and shone as a brilliant democrat and statesman for more than 20 years. By sheer weight of intellect and character he frequently dominated international conferences, and he was the dominant factor in Greece until a few years ago.

His career was curiously paralleled by his veteran opponent General John Metaxas, who has just died. The contrasts were great. Metaxas the soldier broke with Venizelos the liberal statesman, but relented, and the two served their country in a curious alternation of hostility and co-operation. Finally when the Venizelist party was crushed in 1935, Metaxas became premier. The republic of Venizelos was ended and the monarchy was restored.

Many exiled Venizelists are now expected to return to Greece, and it is hoped that there will be a general amnesty, in which the heroic little country can make good use of all its patriots again, regardless of party allegiance.

The free nations of the world, with special reference to Britain and America, would like to see democracy restored in the land which first gave democracy to the world. In any case, Greece, after the glorious blows it has recently struck for freedom, should have no more "premiers for life."

APPLE PROPAGANDA

It seems a little odd to set Apple Week in the middle of the winter, instead of in the summer or early fall when apples are being harvested in fragrant orchards all over the country. But the purpose of Ohio's Apple Week, at the end of January, is to move the last of the 1940 crop from storage places to consumers' tables.

Wholesale and retail dealers cooperate in the publicity for the week. Special prices are offered. And the housewives who forget sales resistance and bring home a new supply of apples for the children to munch after school or to use for pies and other delectable desserts for the family are not gullible but wise.

At least, in this era of propaganda, lobbying, and high-pressure argument generally, most people would rather be induced to eat a few more apples, or something else as good, than be herded into a

FDR AGREED TO AMENDMENT

WASHINGTON—Most of the discussion at the President's conference with congressional leaders on the Aid-to-Britain bill hinged on two amendments which he contended had little, if any, meaning.

They were aimed to prohibit the conveying of merchant ships by U. S. war vessels, and to require all lend-lease transactions to be approved by the new super-defense agency, Office of Production Management.

Biggest argument was over the prohibition of convoys. Republican floor leaders Charley McNary and Joe Martin insisted on such an amendment. Roosevelt argued that it would be unnecessary and meaningless.

"The neutrality act prohibits American vessels from entering restricted war zones," he pointed out in effect, "and I have no desire to repeal the neutrality act. However, if you must put this window dressing in the bill, I won't try to stop it."

The other amendment, sponsored by isolationist Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, would require the Office of Production Management to approve the loan or lease of all war supplies to Britain. And the President flatly put his foot down when Joe Martin suggested that it be included in the bill.

Roosevelt contended that it would retard speedy execution of the lend-lease program when "speed is the very essence of our attempts to help Great Britain." Also he argued that it would burden the OPM with extraneous problems at a time when all its efforts were needed to increase production. Martin finally agreed to a substitute, namely that the President consult with the Army Chief of Staff and the Chief of Naval Operations.

"That's perfectly satisfactory to me," was Roosevelt's reaction. "I would naturally do that anyway."

HULL TALKS

When Secretary of State Hull appeared in secret session before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he emphasized the belief that the fall of Britain would have grave and immediate repercussions in South America.

He warned that local Nazi-Fascist parties would attempt to seize power in at least half a dozen countries, probably resulting in civil war which Hitler would exploit to the limit. And where totalitarian regimes did succeed in gaining a foothold, Hull pointed out that Hitler would immediately establish bases for military operation to strike at other parts of Latin America and the United States.

Hull mentioned no names and was not pressed for any. In fact, the two isolationist warriors present, Nye of North Dakota and Clark of Missouri, handled him with kid gloves throughout the proceedings.

Sore Throat Compress

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● In these days of colds and sore throats it is well to remember the compress. It may give more relief than medicines. It can be arranged and applied in any home and cannot possibly do any harm. For a sore throat, laryngitis, or tonsillitis, the relief is almost instantaneous. The throat compress, however, is usually put on the wrong way. If simply wrapped around the throat from front to back, it does not reach the place that is sore. It should be applied so that the ends meet over the top of the head, from under the chin.

Preparation of Compress
Prepare two strips of cloth three inches wide and long enough to reach from one ear to the other, and a strip of flannel three and a half inches wide, long enough to go under the chin and over the top of the head. Wring the two cloth strips out of water at a temperature of 60°. Place them on the throat, extending from the tip of one ear to the other, and place the flannel cloth over them to keep them in place, bringing it over the top of the head and pinning it in place. This is allowed to remain an hour, then another is put on.

The water can be colder or hotter if it feels better that way but a temperature of 60 is about right. Nobody knows quite why this does so much good. The same sort of thing used on the abdomen—the Preissnitz bandage—is a remarkable remedy. It will relieve spasms or gallstone attacks almost as promptly as an opiate. The usual explanation is that it furnishes counter-irritation. The sensory nerves of the skin over a sore spot are soothed and perhaps through nerve endings going to the cord, there is an additional blood exchange made at the point of inflammation. Such is the explanation given for the undoubtedly good effects of mustard plasters, hot water bags, etc.

Chest Compress
The chest compress is useful in pleurisy and pneumonia. The shape of the chest compress should be that of the pneumonia jacket. It should go around the chest and have strips that go over the shoulders.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

W. E. Wallace, Circleville's leading baker and one of its most progressive merchants, took over the reins of the Chamber of Commerce after the annual reorganization meeting. He succeeded Karl J. Herrmann.

Fat J. Kirwin, South Court Street, editor of "The Lantern," an O. S. U. publication gave an address, "Circleville Today," over WOSU, citing Logan Elm, the Pumpkin Show and Ted Lewis, familiar names by which Circleville is identified throughout the country.

Citing as its greatest achievement of the year the fact that the Chamber of Commerce straightened out difficulties between federal relief administrator and the Pickaway County commissioners, Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary, filed his annual report.

10 YEARS AGO

Dr. Loy C. Schiff of Ashville was elected as part time health commissioner at the regular meeting of the Pickaway County Board of Health to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. A. L. Stump of Derby.

Judge Florence Allen of the Ohio Supreme Court was to deliver an address at the Presbyters so that they can be pinned and hold the jacket in place. After being adjusted, it looks very much like a sleeveless sweater. Two or three pieces of linen or cotton are cut in the same shape and wrung out of water, again at 60°, put around the chest, and changed about every half hour unless the patient is asleep. Before removing the old one the new one should be made ready so as not to expose the patient too much.

These household applications of hydrotherapy are very valuable additions to treatment. True, they do nothing more than relieve symptoms, but they are far more valuable and harmless than the administration of a lot of medicine that simply doses the patient up.

I stepped forward and laid my hand against his tear-stained, rain-soaked cheek. He didn't have fever; his face was like ice. I didn't dare effuse his request; it might really be of importance to learn what he had to say. I swung to Cary.

"Get Janet," I ordered. He gave me a queer look, but started for the stairs. I turned back to Johnny. "Come to the fire; you're frozen."

"I'm too wet; I'd ruin your rugs." Even in that moment his consideration impressed me. Whoever, whatever, his father might be, the boy was a little gentleman.

"Never mind the rugs," I said, as soothingly as I could manage. "You won't hurt anything in here." I grasped his arm and hurried him into the room Cary and I had just left. A fire was roaring there, and

MURDER MAKES A HERO

BY ELLIOTT FILLION
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR

"IT'S JOHNNY WING," I cried over my shoulder to Cary and old Jabez, who was following him.

I didn't wait for them to unbolt the door, but did it myself. When I opened it, the wind hurled it open, almost sweeping me from my feet. Johnny was fairly blown into the hall. I wondered then, and I wonder now, how the boy ever kept his feet in such a gale. While Jabez and Cary struggled to close the door, I turned my attention to Johnny.

He was a wretched looking object. The old suit he wore was drenched with rain, his head was bare and he was shivering violently, with cold, I thought.

"Can I see Miss Janet, please?" His voice shook, and I became aware that all the water on his face wasn't rain. His eyes were swollen almost out of his head, and as I looked at him a great tear squeezed itself over his lid and rolled down his cheek.

Funny he didn't ask for Kaye, I thought, then I recalled that Robert said he had gone to every house in the village when searching for her. My heart leaped with relief. He knew of her absence, and undoubtedly he had worried himself into a state of unreasoning terror which accounted for his tears. I knew he loved Kaye devotedly. That was evident in every word he spoke, every look he gave when she was near. He probably felt that he knew Janet better than the rest of us, and it was to her he had come for news of his adored one. But I couldn't disturb her for such a reason. Both she and Mrs. Gould had been near collapse after the funeral and had remained in their rooms this morning.

"I don't think you can see Miss Janet this morning," I answered. "Won't I do?" I smiled at him, trying to encourage him to accept me as his substitute.

A determined old man expression settled over his boyish features. He shook his head decidedly. "I must see her." He clenched his hands into grimy fists, took a step nearer me.

"It's about Miss Kaye," he whispered. I stepped forward and laid my hand against his tear-stained, rain-soaked cheek. He didn't have fever; his face was like ice. I didn't dare effuse his request; it might really be of importance to learn what he had to say. I swung to Cary.

"Get Janet," I ordered. He gave me a queer look, but started for the stairs. I turned back to Johnny. "Come to the fire; you're frozen."

"I'm too wet; I'd ruin your rugs." Even in that moment his consideration impressed me. Whoever, whatever, his father might be, the boy was a little gentleman.

"Never mind the rugs," I said, as soothingly as I could manage. "You won't hurt anything in here." I grasped his arm and hurried him into the room Cary and I had just left. A fire was roaring there, and

I felt the boy needed warmth.

He yielded, without further objection, to my insistence, and crouched as near the blaze as he dared. The heat sent a cloud of steam rising from his wet garments, and I saw a tiny bit of color creep back into his face.

He looked up at me, gratitude was in his tortured eyes.

"Thank you, Miss Nancy. I was awfully cold." Shudders shook him as he spoke. I spoke to Jabez, who had followed us to the door. "Get some hot chocolate as quick as you can," I said. Then, to Johnny, as Mrs. Carl's words flashed into my mind, "Have you had any breakfast?"

"I'm not hungry."

"Well, you're going to have something to eat," I returned decidedly. "Bring something to eat, too. Bread and butter, cold meat, whatever cook has handy. Or," as Jabez started away, "some hot soup would be good. Bring them all, if you can."

I didn't say any more to Johnny. I didn't want to frighten him away by foolish questions.

It wasn't a moment when Jabez followed by Alice, carrying a tray, returned. I gave one glance at what they had brought. A pitcher of steaming soup, bread and butter and a large bouillon cup were there. I seized the pitcher, poured out a cup of the rich broth and held it out to Johnny.

"Drink this," I commanded.

His eyes brightened at sight of the food, and I knew, by the way he gulped down the soup and wolfed into the bread and butter I spread for him, that the boy was almost famished.

"I'll bring some chocolate in a minute," Alice said. "Cook's making it now."

I nodded absently. My ear had caught the click of heels descending the stairs. Johnny, too, heard the sound. He stopped eating and looked eagerly toward the door.

"Eat it all," I said sternly. I stepped to the door and met Janet, Cary and Mrs. Gould. I realized then that Cary must have heard what Johnny whispered to me.

"The boy is starved," I said in an undertone. "Go easy on him for a moment more."

Janet nodded understandingly. She forced her face into a cheery smile and crossed the room to his side.

"Good morning, Johnny," she said. "Eat all you want and we'll talk afterward."

But Johnny, after one long gulp which finished the soup, set down the cup and faced her. "I mustn't, Miss Janet," he said earnestly. "I wouldn't have eaten at all but—I haven't had anything since yesterday morning." Long shudders shook his thin frame. His self-control, marvelous in a boy of his age, was fast slipping away.

"It's—it's—I know where Miss Kaye is," he said, his voice an animal-like yelp. He hurled himself at Janet, clutched her arm with both hands and burst into sobs which racked him from head to foot.

His interrupted sentence could only mean that he knew where Kaye was. Would he ever tell his story? Who knew what horrors she might be going through?

I glanced at the others. Their faces, white and agonized, told me their thoughts were like mine.

Janet did not hesitate; she put her free arm about the dripping form and spoke gently:

"You're cold and wet and hungry, and I don't blame you for feeling this way, but if you know anything about Miss Kaye you're not helping her by crying."

Her words, so softly spoken, were just the stimulation he needed. He lifted his bowed head and spoke in a thick voice half smothered by tears.

"She's on Weeneck Island, Miss Janet!"

Weeneck Island! I had never heard the name before. I couldn't understand why that statement should so shock and terrify the others, as their faces revealed that it did.

On Weeneck Island, Johnny? Are you sure? Janet's voice trembled, but her gentle tone did not change.

"I'm sure. My father did it!" His sobs almost strangled him.

I was sure I knew now why the boy was in such a state. Kaye had told me that he literally worshipped his drunken bum of a father. If Bill Wing were responsible for Kaye's kidnapping, the boy must have gone through unpeakable suffering before he finally brought himself to come to Purple Beeches.

"Sit down, Johnny, and tell us all about it," Janet's voice shook piteously. That quaver seemed to galvanize Johnny into new life.

He shook his head, released himself from her encircling arm and poured out his story.

"I often go there to get shells and things," he said. "I was there when father put her in one of those shutters down by the water. He swore he'd kill me if I blabbed; that he wouldn't hurt her. And I'm sure he wouldn't have. Miss Janet, but he's drunk—dead drunk—and the bridge's under water."

A groan burst from the circle, and Kaye's story of the bridge connecting the tiny island with the cove at the fishing village tore through my mind.

"Those shutters ain't—aren't—safe," Even in his wild terror, he remembered the correction Kaye had tried to drill into his mind.

"In this storm they'll be washed away! She'll be drowned!" Again sobs choked him.

"I'll get the men from the village," Cary started for the door. His voice quivered; his face was ghastly white. I wondered why his strong body shook so.

"There's a wreck on Wetuxet Shoal; they've all gone there! I'm not strong enough to do anything alone. That's why I've come for you!"

A terrifying silence fell. I couldn't understand why Cary stopped, leaning shivering against the door! Mrs. Gould's anguished tone cut across my thoughts.

"Cary! You will save my girl!" (To Be Continued)

RESERVES HOLD

JITNEY DINNER

"Hurry up I'm hungry." "Stop pushing, you'll get there soon enough!" "Bring out another pan of Johnny." These and various other frezzer expressions were heard Tuesday noon when the Senior Girl Reserves held their annual jitney lunch in the social room.

The harassed members that were waiting on the hungry consumers were running hither and yon trying to keep plenty of food on the tables and serve the teachers at the same time.

Johnmarzetti, ham salad and pimento cheese sandwiches, cocoa, chocolate milk, potato chips, candy bars, and ice cream bars were on the menu. The price of each article was five cents.

This bedlam lasted from eleven o'clock when the grade children started coming until twelve forty-five when classes began.

Proceeds from this affair swelled the treasury of the Girl Reserves which will be used for charitable projects, entertainment and other current expenses.

JUNIOR RESERVE PLANS PROJECTS

At the regular meeting of the Junior Girl Reserves, Thursday, plans for two projects got under way. On February 5, the club will have a candy sale and on February 26, a jitney lunch. Florence Dresbach, president, appointed the committees for both affairs.

Chairmen of the committees for the candy sale are Jean Burns, sacking committee; Patty Owens, selling committee. Chairmen of committees for the jitney lunch are Ann Hott, food committee; Catherine Betz, clean-up-committee; Patty Owens, teachers serving committee; Barbara Helweg, table and chairs committee; and Rosemary Brown, ticket committee.

Date of the joint Girl Reserve dance was not announced. Viola Arledge, treasurer, told the club that no one would be admitted to the dance without first paying her debts.

Ann Hott had charge of the program this week on Constructive Criticism.

According to Miss Gretchen Moeller, high school librarian, William Henry Chamberlain, the foreign correspondent for the Monitor, is one of the country's leading authorities on foreign affairs.

The Christian Science Monitor carries a wide range of subjects outside of news. There are sections on art, music, editorials, nature study, home, school and drama.

Each week the Monitor publishes an illustrated magazine section devoted to timely articles. In the latest edition there are articles on "Why Portugal Remains Neutral," Colonel Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy, and Avila Camacho, Consolidator of Mexico.

Found also in this magazine section are articles on nature study, music, home, art, and school.

PUPILS OF C. H. S. gathered in the auditorium Monday at one o'clock to see and hear the motion picture "The Power Behind the Nation" presented by the Norfolk and Western Railway.

Brought by Edward Sellers of N & W, the technicolor picture was narrated by Bob Trout. It reviewed from beginning to end the coal industry. The first scenes were in the mines where the audience learned the procedure of drilling, blasting and piling the coal into cars on an electric railway which take it to the surface.

It is there washed, sorted and dumped into cars which take it to all parts of the country and to ships bound for foreign ports. The intricate mechanism of the loading devices at the large sea ports was explained.

Production of many of the by-products of coal were illustrated and their use explained.

There was a second assembly Wednesday at 2:45 p. m.

Dr. Alfred Haake, the second in the series of speakers sponsored by the Rotary Institute of Understanding, discussed the equality of American owners and laborers and cleared the minds of questioning scholars as to the facts of what percent of the profit of industry laborers and owners receive.

Dr. Haake also spoke in the high school social room in the evening to an adult audience.

SUBJECTS CHANGE

Some subjects in the high school curriculum are only one semester courses. Those ending the first semester are vocations, salesmanship and advanced algebra. They have been replaced on the schedule by civic geography, commercial law and solid geometry, respectively.

STOOGES CLUB IS PROVIDING NEW B. B. EQUIPMENT

At the weekly Stooze meeting last Wednesday the boys decided that the basketball team of C. H. S. should be provided with a towel cart. The club members and their adviser feel that one of the most unsanitary phases of basketball in the high school at the present time is the towel which is thrown to the team during timeouts. (No reflection on the managers.)

Clark Martin and Richard Brintlinger will make this small vehicle which will be used at all games, home and away.

During the course of the meeting, the boys discussed plans concerning the annual Stooze Banquet. However, they made no specific arrangements and Robert Brown, president, appointed several committees to function at the next meeting.

Robert also appointed a committee to contact and investigate bands, one of which will serve at the yearly Stooze dance. This committee has Jack Beck as chairman and consists of William Burget, Joseph Staley and Robert Brown.

SCIENTISTS GIVE TO CHS LIBRARY

A gift subscription of the Christian Science Monitor has been given to the Circleville high school library by the Christian Science group of this city.

This daily newspaper ranks as one of the two best newspapers in the country. It has been coming since December 1 and will continue to come for the remainder of the school year. For a long time a paper of this type has been needed in the library for students' reference.

According to Miss Gretchen Moeller, high school librarian, William Henry Chamberlain, the foreign correspondent for the Monitor, is one of the country's leading authorities on foreign affairs.

EMPLOYEES GIVEN PAY, BUT CITY'S FUNDS ARE LOW

Safety Director Announces Transfer Of Shasteen To Day Time Duty

FITZPATRICK IS RETIRED

Fire Hydrant, Light Bills Go Unpaid; Advance Of Funds Probable

Circleville employees received their January 15 to 30 pay checks Saturday, with the announcement from City Auditor Lillian Young that unless unexpected revenues come into the city's general fund, the next salary payment on February 15 will be the last that can be taken from the general fund until an advance has been secured on the city's taxes through the county treasurer.

First revenue expected will not be received until April, Miss Young said, when the city will receive about $2,000 revenue from the liquor tax and therefore it will probably be necessary to get an advance from the county treasurer, since the city payroll amounts to about $1,600 twice a month.

The city's fire hydrant and light bills went unpaid Saturday, with Miss Young stating that if the payments were made there would be nothing left in the general fund.

As funds continue to drain from the depleted city treasury city departments struggle to operate under slashed appropriations. The police department has been forced to reduce its staff because of a shortage in its 1941 appropriations.

Shasteen on Day Duty
Karl J. Herrmann, safety director, has announced that with the retirement of Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick from the police department, Patrolman Alva Shasteen has been transferred from night duty to day duty, with no additional man to be appointed.

In a letter to Police Chief McCrady, the safety director said: "Since there is a shortage of funds for the operation of the police department for the year 1941, no additional patrolman will be appointed at the present time. Your night force will consist of three patrolmen, as no extra patrolman will be placed on duty except in case of emergency. On its January 15 meeting, City Council reduced its appropriations by $12,000 cutting nearly every city-financed department. Its total appropriations run slightly over $50,000 for the coming year, with an estimated 1941 income of $52,000.

The police department took a $2,620 cut in its appropriation and the fire department a $1,955 cut.

JENKINS VOICES HIS OPPOSITION TO LEASE-LEND

COLUMBUS, Feb. 1.—The lease-lend bill furnishes "more power than any man should want."

Such was the attack made on the measure by Congressman Thomas A. Jenkins, of Ironton, at the 69th anniversary reunion and McKinley day banquet of the Republican glee club in Columbus last night.

"The lease-lend bill," said Jenkins, "gives the President more authority than any other president ever asked for. It is more power than any man should want."

"The reason for these demands is that the government is running behind about $25,000,000 a day. When will it stop is the question everybody is asking."

Leut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert also spoke and paid tribute to McKinley as "one who did not plan the rise that was his—it came to him."

BRIGGS RENAMED OFFICER BY PRODUCTION CREDIT

At an annual meeting of the Columbus Production Credit Corporation, held in Columbus Friday, W. A. Woodruff, Franklin County, was reelected president and Harry Briggs, Pickaway County, vice-president. Harry Forsythe, Licking County, was renamed as secretary-treasurer of the association.

Other directors, all reelected, include Charles Smith, Union County, Gwin Burr, Madison County and James Dove, Fairfield County. During the meeting officials voted to increase the size of their board of directors from five to seven. Representatives from eight counties attended the meeting. Counties included in the district are Pickaway, Fayette, Fairfield, Licking, Delaware, Union, Madison and Franklin.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1.—Police today broadcast a description of 10-year-old Eugene Weiner, Jr., son of Eugene Weiner, the wealthy New York exporter and husband of Lillian Roth, film actress, missing since last night.

It was learned that the boy, tucked into bed last evening by his father after he had brought him home from a military school for the week end, had vanished in a brief interval that Weiner was away from the apartment.

After conducting a brief investigation, detectives issued a police broadcast of the boy's description. They said the appearance of his bedroom indicated the boy had left "willingly."

The Eaton Co., which manufactures products for National Defense and which has five plants in Ohio and Michigan, was recently involved in a strike called by the union. The contract covers workers in the Detroit plant.

DEADLOCK HOLDS AT MILWAUKEE'S SCENE OF STRIKE

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 1.—A temporary stalemate was reached today in conferences seeking to end the Allis-Chalmers strike, in which 7,000 workers are idle and work on $40,000,000 in National Defense contracts has been tied up.

R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO's United Automobile Workers Union, charged that Max W. Babb, company president, refused to attend a conference scheduled for today. No progress toward a settlement was made in conferences, Thomas said.

Federal conciliators attended yesterday's meeting, and hoped to arrange further conferences soon. The UAW is demanding a union shop and wage increases, as well as other concessions. Thomas indicated he may not take part in any further conferences.

Harold Christoffel, local UAW president, issued a denial of a charge voiced in congress by Rep. Hoffman, (R) Michigan that he, Christoffel, is a Communist.

NAZIS IN DENIAL OF PLAN TO USE POISONOUS GAS

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—German authorities reacted strongly against the suggestion of American Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox that the Reich may use poison gas when the threatened invasion of England begins.

Wilhelmstrasse officials sought to refute Knox's statement by recalling Chancellor Hitler's plea, voiced October 6, 1939, that the war be kept within humanitarian bounds.

(Editor's Note: Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington yesterday, Secretary Knox predicted an early German attempt to invade England. Knox stated information in his possession indicated Germany might use poison gas on a large scale in the course of such an invasion attempt. He added that the Reich plans a naval assault against the Western Hemisphere if England falls.)

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES, O. S. U. Horticulturist

QUESTION: I have a Christmas cactus which is six or seven years old and has bloomed the last three or four years. This year it was exceptionally nice. The plant is in a pot 7½ inches high and 6½ inches wide. Would you recommend transplanting? If so, what would be the best time of year and what size pot? Mrs. L. B. S., Ashland, Ohio.

ANSWER: You will find that most of the succulents and cacti can be grown in relatively small pots and I seriously question whether yours needs repotting although it may need fertilization. I would give it about half a teaspoonful of a commercial fertilizer with an analysis of 4-12-4 in March, June, and in October. If you do repot it, now when it has finished flowering and is more or less dormant would be an ideal time. When repotting plants they should be put in the next size larger pot. This would be an inch larger in diameter.

QUESTION: Will cow manure be satisfactory for fertilizer for flowers and vegetables by placing the manure in a metal barrel, filling the barrel with water and after setting a while use the water for sprinkling on flowers and vegetables same as you would sprinkle your lawn? Mrs. C.O.D., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: If I were going to use barnyard manure on my flowers and vegetables I certainly would not want to go through the nuisance of making liquid manure nor would I want to waste the valuable organic matter that is in the manure. In the case of the vegetable garden I would put the manure on during the winter and thoroughly spade it through the soil in the spring. In the case of perennial flowers I would allow it to rot for a few months before putting it on as a mulch. Incidentally, the old-fashioned idea of liquid manure is being replaced today by its modern equivalent, one ounce of ammonium sulfate dissolved in two gallons of water.

QUESTION: Can you take the cuttings of branches of chrysanthemums and other flowers in that family to start in pots to get new plants? What must a person do to get them started and what kind of ground? Mrs. C.O.D., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: Cuttings of chrysanthemums and other house plants are relatively easy to root. Cuttings of the tip growth or in the case of chrysanthemums, suckers are taken from the base. The cuttings are usually made two or three inches in length and rooted in clean, sharp sand. In the house to prevent the dry atmosphere from causing them to wilt, it may be well to root them in a shallow box of sand with four panes of glass put around the sides and the fifth one on top.

QUESTION: As chairman of the speaker bureau of our garden club, I am looking for literature and help in program material. Do you have any "true-false" or quiz programs? Mrs. J. W., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: Each month in our Farm and Home Garden Club News Letter we include a series of quiz questions, together with their answers. We will be glad to send this news letter to anyone upon request.

QUESTION: I am asked to give a paper on window gardening for our garden club meeting and would appreciate any literature you might have on this subject or where I might obtain some. Mrs. H. B. Mt. Blanchard, Ohio.

ANSWER: In addition to our bulletin on house plants which you may obtain from your county agricultural agent, I have a booklet on window gardening which I will be glad to send you upon request.

QUESTION: I am afraid you will have difficulty in trying to keep the perennials in your cellar over winter since they are inclined to develop a weak, spindly growth. It would be much better if you would plant them out-of-doors either in a well drained spot in the garden or better still, in a cold frame. I would not attempt to plant them as if they were going to grow but merely heel them in close together in soil. I would then cover them with some excelsior, oak leaves, or straw for the winter, being careful not to have any material that will mat down and cause the tops of the Coreopsis to rot. For information on the care of them next year may I suggest you ask your county agricultural agent for a copy of our bulletin on perennial flowers.

QUESTION: Will you please advise whether I can keep daffodils and narcissus bulbs over winter and plant them next spring? These were dug during the summer and given me by a friend.

ANSWER: Your narcissus bulbs should be planted as soon as possible; in fact, even this late. Unless they have been kept under cool conditions, they are very likely to have deteriorated. I would suggest you either plant them out-of-doors where they are to bloom, or if you can not do this, in a box of soil and put it out-of-doors. Incidentally, daffodils and narcissus are the same thing, daffodils being the common name and narcissus the scientific name.

QUESTION: One year ago I planted seeds of plummy bleeding heart, Dicentra eximia. They came up last spring. Will they bloom next spring? P. N. F., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: The plummy or dwarf bleeding heart is a good example of perennials that require a low temperature treatment before they will germinate. If sown in the fall, they will come up the following spring; if sown in the spring they usually will not come up until a year from then. Since yours grew last summer, they should bloom this coming summer.

QUESTION: Why is it that you never recommend the scarlet sage? T. D. Columbus.

ANSWER: Although the red salvia or scarlet sage is one of the easiest and surest blooming annuals that we have, its color is so brilliant and it produces such a mass of bloom that it is rather difficult to use in the average home grounds without making too large a mass of brilliant color. We feel there are so many other flowers that are more desirable in their color effects that we consequently do not usually suggest the red salvia.

QUESTION: How long may daffodils be left in the ground without digging and dividing them? Mrs. J. M. H., Nelsonville.

ANSWER: I would say that, normally, narcissus or daffodils can be left in the ground at least four to six years without worrying about their crowding. Even then if they are well fertilized and the soil is good, they may be left in for even longer periods unless you wish to dig them to obtain extra bulbs for planting in other locations. I know of a number of clumps in a garden near Cincinnati that have been in for 18 or 20 years and are still blooming profusely.

QUESTION: Should we use vitamin B1 on our house plants? ANSWER: Despite all the advertisements, radio broadcasts, magazine and newspaper articles

If there is any delay in reaching this objective it would be caused by this unprecedented bid for presidential power."

Rep. Maas, Minn., ranking Republican on the House Naval Affairs Committee, announced that he will propose an amendment requiring Great Britain to surrender all possessions in the Western Hemisphere in return for aid.

to the contrary, we have found in our experiments here at the Ohio State University that when grown in our normal Ohio soils most plants manufacture sufficient vitamin B1 for their own use and most of our Ohio soils contain a sufficient amount of it in addition. With the possible exception of cactus, camelias, and plants being grown by soilless culture methods, you will not find any noticeable gain by its use in this state.
